CHEVALIER GAINS A LAP SU WHILE CROWD GOES WILD.

Gyclist Miller Resting After Riding.

After being relieved by his partner, Waller, the six-day champion does not go to sleep at once. He reclines out for half an hour, after being thoroughly massaged, and reads the papers for half an hour.

thousand good dollars of the realm among seven teams and seventeen individual contestants.

Fourteen of them are playing the dual role of individual riders and team mates and three are privateers out for the single moneys.

If Miller and Waller can hold the bunch they will be the winners by a lap to-morrow night at 10 o'clock. If the others, too, can hang on and let no team pass their positions at 9 o'clock last evening, it would be the contest of the single positions at 9 o'clock last evening, it would be the contest of t
